RE: Louis Molina

To Whom It May Concern:

Louis first came to us as an intern from FIU. Even though he was not necessarily trained as an editor he quickly picked up our editing programs and style. After seeing how well he was doing we decided to hire him as a full time employee. As an employee Louis was responsible for editing for our shows, editing special projects, editing for sports, and archiving. He was well liked and worked very well with everyone. In fact Louis often made the workplace an enjoyable place and lifted others spirits with his friendly demeanor and humorous outlook. Louis was very reliable and we knew if he was in charge of something it would get done without a problem. He eventually took over as supervising editor for our 6pm show, often doing the entire show by himself. It seems no matter what was thrown at Louis he was able to deal with it and be successful. Aside, from his basic responsibilities Louis would often go above and beyond when it came to quality control. He often found errors before they made air and worked to correct them. Louis was also very helpful when it came to training interns and new employees. He took the time to teach them the editing system and operating procedures of our company. I have no doubt that Louis would be an asset to any workplace. He is a reliable and hard worker and I give him my full endorsement.
